Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Suggestions as to the Spiritual Philosophy of African Slavery What a puzzle is man upon this planet to the Christian philosopher! What varieties of form, color, habits, and capacities! What differences in government, in religion, in language, in private and public manners and customs! All degrees and shades of white, black, yellow, and red! Some progressing, some retrograding, - the most of them perfectly stagnant as to thought and life! Is there no thread to this labyrinth of wonders - no key to these mysteries? It is commonly supposed that human nature is, and always has been, the same everywhere - that all men are fundamentally organized alike, have similar affections and understandings; and think and will in the same manner under analogous or identical circumstances. The same influences, it is supposed, would produce about the same results everywhere, and at all times. Consequently it is argued that all men are created equal, and ultimately designed for our own type of civilization, which it is their right to acquire, and their duty to achieve. Is this so? Is this crude and grossly material way of looking at human nature satisfactory? Does it explain any thing? Why are some men white and some black, some civilized and some heathen, some progressive and some hopelessly torpid? How came the ancient civilizations to perish, and in what and why did they differ from our modern systems? Why does the Indian become extinct, and why is the African enslaved? These and a thousand similar questions can never be answered by that philosophy, which supposes that men are always equal and similar, and that the race has been ever gradually...
